GIROUX HAS THE DIVIDEND LIST OF NEVADA RECORD

Progress With Huge Working Shaft Breaks All Records of State.

BIG PUMPS BEING PLACED IN POSITION

Elv Consolidated Work Proves Facts of Interest to the District.

Special to The Tribune ELY, Nev., May 8.—The Giroux com-pany has completed the raise between the 1200-foot and 1000-foot levels of the Giroux shaft, and thus within ten months since work was commenced, this monster shaft, twelve feet four inches, has been sunk from the surface 1300 feet through solid lime and timbered throughout. This establishes a new record for rapidity in hig shaft work in this state. The completion of the shaft will accelerate the cutting of the pumping station on the 1200-foot level, which is also a big piece of work. While this station is being cut, the shaft will be continued on downward its ultimate depth being fixed, it is said. It is said at 2000 feet. The cutting of the station will require about two months' time, and then will follow the installation of two pumps with a capacity of 600 gallons perminute to each. Driffing toward the Alpha workings will then be started which will be finished in another two months. After this is completed, the Giroux will be in a position to mine its rich direct smelting ores which have already been blocked out between the 1300-foot and the 1000-foot level of the Alpha.

The Ely Consolidated in the development of the Zack mine has demonstrated that large bodies of high grade ore exist in what was originally considered the lime belt surrounding the proven mineral zone of the district. It would, however, be somewhat unfair to the Zack to say that its ore body was found in the time for its ores are associated with porphyry, so classified by Dr. Walter Harvey Weed in his report upon the Ely Central property. Nevertheless, the ore body was tenched by a shaft through the lime, and this proves that ore-bearing porphyry extends under the line for unknown distances and also that where associated with the lime, the orea are of a much higher grade in copper values.

At a distance of 750 feet from the portal, the tunnel of the Ely Central property. Nevertheless, the ore body was tends under the line for unknown distances and also that where associated with the lime and entered a quartz porphyry, heavily impregnated with from which is regarded by the manning men of the district, who are neglecting some splendid opportunities in that section.

The Ely Central company has encou shaft, twelve feet four inches, has been sunk from the surface 1100 feet through solid lime and timbered throughout. This

The Eig Central company has encountered carbonate one at a depth of 485 feet in the Eureka shaft. A station will be cut at this point from whence a drift will be continued on downward through the primary ore until it reaches the zone of secondary enrichment. The finding of one in the Eureka shaft verifies the prediction under by Col. William A. Farish, the mining expert, when he examined the property last fall. Ely Central company has encour

UTAH CON. RECEIVES GOOD PRICE FOR PLANT

The report of the Utah Consolidated Mining company for 1909 gives some interesting information respecting the sal-Vage of a smelting works upon dismantlement. The cost of this company's plant was 3972.676. The structural steel sold to the International Smelting and Refining company has realized $72.047. Wille machinery and plant have brought $92.473. There is estimated to remain property valued at $15.000, not yet realized Against these credits is the wrecking expense, amounting to $37,356. The net salvage in this case appears to amount to a little more than 14 per cent, which appears to be unusually high and is, of course, explainable by the fact that the material and machinery of the old plant could be employed for a new plant being erected in the same district, in which the Utah Consolidated is financially interested, this being a condition that does not ordinarily occur.—Engineering and Mining Journal. vage of a smelting works upon disman-

PECULIAR ANTI-LEAD LEGISLATION OF FRANCE

By an act of the French parliament, which took effect July 20, 1909, the manufacture and use of white lead for either interior or exterior painting and decorating is to be prohibited after five years from the date of the act. London Englineering of January 14 observes that this is the result of agitation started some years ago by the French Socialists, who made the most extrawagant claims regarding the ill effects of white lead on the painters, causing a high death rate from lead poisoning. The bill against the amenufacture and use of white lead on the painters, causing a high death rate from lead poisoning. The bill against the manufacturer and use of white lead was introduced in the lower chamber and was introduced in the lower chamber and was passed. The senate sought to amend the act by providing indemnity for the manufacturers who weir thus to be deprived of their business, but the lower chamber would not accept the amendment. The minister of labor was also against the amendment, thus establishing as a principle the right of parliament to destroy private property without compensation. The entire procedure is against industrial progress. By observing suitable precautionary measures, the manufacture and use of white lead are no more dangerous than many other industries. In fact, there is said to be more lead poisoning among employees of accumulator and storage-battery works in an among painters, but no provision is made for the protection of the health of these men. The French law has evidently been passed wholly as a measure alleged to be in the interest of labor, and willout regard to industrial progress and property rights. Engineers have already been to seek for a suitable substitute for white lead as a pigment. Some experiments already carried out indicate that nothing will take its piace satisfactorilly and that xine white is not at all adapted to certain uses where lead was formerly employed.—Metallurgical and Chemical Engineer.
